CIRCUMCISION

This little boy was initially seen by yourselves for a religious circumcision. You noted he had a 45 degree angle of the penis and you stopped the procedure and asked us to refer him to the NHS. We have now done this and he has been seen by our NHS consultant Mr Patel, who despite the 45 degree angle felt that a circumcision would be safe to proceed with. He was going to list this little boy to have it done on the NHS but the waiting list is two years long. The family are very keen to have it done privately and I believe they sent the letter from Mr Patel but you did not find this acceptable as it did not mention the 45 degree angle. They have now taken up a further appointment simply so I can put this in the letter. We would be grateful if the circumcision could go ahead. Thank you for your help with this matter.

Yours sincerely

Dr F Keenan
